

JONATHAN HATCH

Jonathan is a financial services and technology lawyer with experience in in-house, compliance and regulatory roles with a focus on technology and academic aspects in this area.

Jonathan is a highly ethical solicitor who thrives on learning about the law and applying this knowledge in assisting clients through facilitating their understanding of the law and technology and applying his extensive problem solving skills and experience to find alternative solutions to difficult technical issues.

He has a special interest in applying existing or reforming laws to new regimes and has advised on a wide range of in-house areas, mostly in financial services, and also dealt with a range of related areas such as probate, employment law, litigation and dispute handling, IP, IT, basic property transactions, contract and a wide range work related to the application of new technologies.