Melissa Fai is a Partner in the Technology + Digital group of Gilbert + Tobin.

Melissa is a data and privacy specialist who dedicates part of her practice to regularly advising clients on privacy and data protection compliance obligations and to considering how clients' use of technology and data, and the commercialisation of data, may be structured to meet their legislative requirements and to achieve the best commercial outcome. Her practice also involves advising on complex commercial and IT transactions, including business process outsourcings, procurement or supply transactions, and transformation projects.

Melissa is a current member of the Privacy and Data Law Committee of the NSW Law Society.
