

Joanne van der Plaat
Councillor, Law Society of NSW
Co-Chair, Rural Issues Committee

Joanne van der Plaat is the co-Chair of the Law Society of New South Wales Rural Issues Committee.

Joanne is a partner at Blaxland Mawson & Rose Solicitors in Cooma and practises predominantly in the areas of workplace relations, property and planning and wills and estates. She lives on a rural property in the Snowy Mountains with her husband and two teenage children and is a prominent advocate for the recruitment and retention of lawyers in RRR areas and the importance of succession planning in rural firms.

Joanne holds a Bachelor of Laws from Macquarie University and is a graduate of the Australian Institute of Company Directors.

Joanne is the current Junior Vice President of the Law Society of New South Wales. She is also a director of Lawcover Insurance Pty Ltd.