

Dr Jemma King
Director & Founder
BioPsychAnalytics

Dr Jemma King has a PhD in Human Behaviour and is a Stress and Emotional Intelligence expert. Jemma is an Honorary Fellow at UQ School of Psychology and works as a specialist advisor to organisations such as the Australian Defence Force and Centre for Army Leadership, the Australian Institute of Sport, and the Australian Olympic Swim Team and global management consultancy firms. Jemma has tailored a pre-deployment 'Performance Optimisation Program' for Special Operations Command that has effectively displayed measurable improvements in behavioural and performance-based outcomes. This formed part of Jemma's Doctoral thesis on 'EI training as a Pre-emptive Approach to Stress'. Jemma guest lectures at the University of Sydney MBA program and supervises a PhD student at the UQ School of Psychology on a 'Leader Executive Function' project. Jemma is a reviewer for The Journal of Management Education. She was an Associate Lecturer in Organisational Behaviour at the University of Queensland Business School (courses included Leadership, Team Dynamics, Ethics, Motivation). Jemma also consults to large organisations and privately consults to many C-Suite executives. Her qualifications include Bachelor of Science, Majoring in Psychology, Bachelor of Business Management 1st Class Honours, and Doctor of Human Behaviour. She has also studied psychoneuroimmunology, endocrinology, neuroscience, anatomy, and medical microbiology. Jemma has three teenage children and lives in Brisbane.