

Emeritus Professor Rosalind Croucher AM
President
Australian Human Rights Commission

Emeritus Professor Rosalind Croucher AM was appointed as President of the Australian Human Rights Commission in July 2017, after seven and a half years as President of the Australian Law Reform Commission.

In 2014 she was acknowledged for her contributions to public policy as one of Australia's '100 Women of Influence' and was awarded the Australian Women Lawyer's award. In the Australia Day Honours list, 2015, Professor Croucher was made a Member of the Order of Australia and in in 2016 Macquarie University conferred on her the title of Emeritus Professor