

Nicholas Burton

Mills Oakley (Stacks Collins Thompson formerly)

Nicholas has wanted to be a lawyer ever since he was nine years old and conducted his first investigation to discover the true identity of Santa Claus – unearthing evidence of a present receipt, taking witness statements from his older brother, and then confronting his parents about their fraudulent behaviour and felonious impersonation of Santa. While his investigation ruined Christmas that year, it awakened a passion for justice and sealed his desire to be a lawyer in the future.

Nicholas is a performer at heart, having been involved in public speaking competitions, choir, drama class, and all manner of musicals, plays and theatrical engagements from Kindy to... well, it's still going!
