Strategic Foresight : Why lawyers need to think about the future and how to do it

Strategic foresight is the systematic exploration of plausible future events to help you make wiser choices. In today's world, it's more important than ever before. This presentation explores concepts, tools and applications of strategic foresight that the legal profession can use to navigate change in a turbulent world.

About Dr Stefan Hajkowicz

Stefan Hajkowicz is a principal scientist in strategy and foresight at CSIRO, Australia. In his job, he helps governments, companies and communities explore the future and make wise choices.

Stefan also works with governments in regions and cities to help them identify and develop emerging technology-sector industry clusters. Stefan leads the Data61 Insights research group, and during his 22-year CSIRO career, he has delivered hundreds of research and consulting projects to industry and government clients.

He has been appointed to professional foresight groups at the OECD and World Economic Forum. Stefan has a doctorate in geography from the University of Queensland and postgraduate qualifications in economics. His book "Global Megatrends" is a CSIRO Publishing best-seller, and he has over 4,700 citations (h-index of 33) on Google Scholar in the fields of foresight, strategy, geography and economics.
