

Jodie Thurgood

Associate Director, Stacks Law Firm

Jodie specialises in compensation law for individuals, conducting matters for local, interstate and international clients.

Jodie is an Accredited Specialist in Personal Injury Law by the Law Society of NSW. She has been practising in this area since commencing employment with Stacks Port Macquarie in 2003. She also appears in the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal (NCAT) in the Guardianship division.

Always striving to achieve the best for her clients, Jodie thinks “outside the box” and takes an empathetic and practical approach to her matters. She enjoys using her skills and experience to help her clients through a difficult time in their lives.

Jodie’s expertise lies in handling claims arising from motor vehicle accidents, work accidents, medical negligence, public liability and occupier’s liability matters.

Jodie has often obtained successful verdicts for clients where liability has been disputed, such as nominal defendant cases where the defendant has absconded interstate, or the offending motor vehicle could not be located. Her clients value her thorough preparation for each case and her drive to achieve a just result.

Growing up on a farm in Crescent Head, Jodie was involved in all aspects of the family farming business, including slashing, planting crops and feeding cattle. She enjoys breeding beef cattle and spending her spare time on her farm, taking care of her cows, horses, dogs and cat, as well as spending time with her family.

Jodie is President of the Mid-North Coast Regional Law Society.
