Gig Economy

An employment and industrial perspective as to how the Gig Economy disrupts competing, traditional businesses. A quick description of the Gig Economy followed by a consideration of the payments and benefits that are paid to employees compared to gig workers.

About Nathan Keats

Nathan is an Accredited Specialist in Industrial and Employment Law and co-chair of the Law Society's Employment Law Committee.

He has over 20 years of experience in employment law advising unions and employees in a number of industries, including maritime, sugar, construction, manufacturing, and the NSW Government sector. Nathan is a skilled and strategic lawyer with experience in the full range of employment and industrial law matters. He has done everything from obtaining salary increases in excess of 19% for non-teaching staff in NSW Public schools under the equal remuneration principle to defending unions from multi-million dollars claims by companies seeking compensation alleged to have been caused by unlawful industrial action.
