Media Release: Three judges appointed to the Adelaide registry of the Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia

The Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia welcomes the appointment of three judges to the Court's Adelaide registry. These judicial appointments substantially increase the Court's judicial resources and will greatly assist the Court to effectively manage its demanding caseload and provide access to justice in South Australia and nationally.

The Commonwealth Attorney-General, Senator the Hon Michaela Cash today announced the following appointments to the Court's Adelaide registry:

Judge Penelope Kari, elevated from Division 2 to Division 1 of the FCFCOA
Barrister John McGinn, appointed to Division 2 of the FCFCOA
Barrister Caroline Jenkins, appointed to Division 2 of the FCFCOA

Nationally, five new judges have been appointed to Division 1 of the Court and six new judges to Division 2. This provides five additional judges overall, with two additional judges in Division 1 and three additional judges in Division 2. This brings the total number of judges nationally to 104. The Court is anticipating further national appointments in the coming months.

These recent appointments are in addition to the many new judicial registrars, child court experts, indigenous liaison officers and support staff that have been engaged to support the judges and undertake a significant role in the case management of matters in the Court.

The Chief Justice of the Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia, the Hon Will Alstergren, said that he was delighted to be able to welcome the appointment of such esteemed and eminently qualified individuals to the Bench.

"The Court is undergoing a period of significant reform and modernisation. I am pleased to welcome a number of enthusiastic and highly skilled practitioners to the Court who have an incredible depth of knowledge and experience in family law and general federal law, as well as the elevation of several very experienced judges to Division 1 of the Court, and a very experienced Senior Judicial Registrar to Division 2.

"The calibre of these appointments reflects confidence in the Court's reform agenda to deliver widespread improvements to the experience of litigants engaging with the Court, particularly in the area of family law.

"The Court looks forward to welcoming the new judges to assist in delivering a world-leading court system that places the safety of children and vulnerable parties at the heart of the legal process.

"South Australia has the significant benefit of receiving three additional judges than previous years, which now provides a total of nine judges for Federal Circuit and Family Court in South Australia.

“On behalf of the Court, I warmly welcome the new judges who will play a critical part in the Court’s future and serving the people of South Australia.”
