

Anjali Nadaradjane

MinterEllison

Born and raised in Sydney to migrant parents, I'm the first of my family to become a lawyer. Admitted as a solicitor four months ago, I'm now coming to the end of my first rotation of a graduate program at MinterEllison - a secondment. Insurance and Corporate risk is my next stop.

Prior to that I studied Law and International Relations at Macquarie University. I mooted a lot and travelled a lot, including a six-month stint studying and working in Indonesia.

I'm also told I take life too seriously, so in an effort to prove that my personality is not as unfunny and mundane as it probably is, I'm throwing my hat in the ring with this competition. I live for beautiful writing so writing creatively became a passion; one that I was able to do in scripting my mock speech for the Golden Gavel Competition.

In my spare time, you'll find me painting (Youtube has been a wonderful tutor), knitting (currently working away at a beanie) or playing piano (I'm a big fan of Chopin).
