GENERAL NOTES

Application and practice notes

- An application that fails to provide mandatory information (including payment), or provides incomplete or misleading information, will be treated as an incomplete application.
- An incomplete application will be treated as 'not received' for the purposes of the legal profession legislation, and will be returned to the applicant. It will then be up to the applicant to decide whether or not to proceed with the application.
- If the applicant wishes to proceed, the applicant will need to resubmit their application by completing the missing/incomplete information in their original application and redeclaring the same application. Until the requisite information is provided, the Law Society Council will not consider granting a practising certificate.
- If the applicant does not wish to proceed, the applicant may request to withdraw the application and refund the application fees.
- It is at the discretion of the Law Society Council whether to grant a practising certificate. Mere lodgement of an application form with the relevant fees does not entitle the applicant to commence practice.

- A practising certificate will not be granted unless professional indemnity insurance requirements are met. A law practice must have professional indemnity insurance cover before commencing to engage in legal practice. This insurance must be maintained at all times while engaged in legal practice.
- A practising certificate will be granted with the supervised legal practice condition unless the condition is inapplicable to the practitioner or an application for the removal of the condition has been granted.

Membership of the Law Society

- Membership of the Law Society is optional. You will still need to pay the Practising Certificate Fee and Fidelity Fund Contribution (where applicable) in order to be granted a practising certificate.
- Payment of the Membership Fee will be regarded by the Law Society as an application to be a Solicitor Member of the Law Society. Your membership will be administered in accordance with The Constitution of the Law Society. Please note that information you have previously provided to the Law Society will be utilised to effect and administer your membership of the Law Society.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Note A: Admission details

If you have been admitted or registered to practise in a jurisdiction other than New South Wales, you must provide evidence of your admission and suitability in each of these jurisdictions as follows:

- If you have been admitted in an Australian jurisdiction other than New South Wales but did not hold a practising certificate in that jurisdiction, you must provide a certified copy of your interstate admission certificate.
- If you have been admitted in an Australian jurisdiction other than New South Wales and held a practising certificate in that jurisdiction, you must provide a current Certificate of Fitness and Good Standing from the appropriate regulatory authority. A Certificate of Fitness and Good Standing is only current for 28 days from the date of issue and must be current on the intended commencement date of your practising certificate.
- If you have not been admitted in another Australian jurisdiction other than New South Wales but have held a practising certificate in another Australian jurisdiction, you must provide a current Certificate of Fitness and Good Standing from the appropriate regulatory authority. A Certificate of Fitness and Good Standing is only current for 28 days from the date of issue and must be current on the intended commencement date of your practising certificate.
- If you have also been admitted and registered to practise in a foreign jurisdiction, you must provide a current Certificate of Fitness and Good Standing from the appropriate regulatory authority where this is possible. A Certificate of Fitness and Good Standing is only current for 28 days from the date of issue and must be current on the intended commencement date of your practising certificate.

Note B: Eligibility to apply for a practising certificate

Rule 12(1) of the Legal Profession Uniform General Rules 2015 provides that an application for an Australian practising certificate must state the participating jurisdiction that the applicant reasonably intends will be the applicant's principal place of legal practice in Australia.

Principal place of practice

Section 44(4) of the Legal Profession Uniform Law (NSW) provides that an application cannot be made in this jurisdiction unless the applicant reasonably intends that this jurisdiction will be his or her principal place of practice during the currency of the certificate applied for.

Practising overseas

Those solicitors who intend to practise exclusively outside Australia are still entitled to apply for a practising certificate in New South Wales (NSW) pursuant to the provisions of rule 18 of the Legal Profession Uniform General Rules 2015.

For those solicitors who practise within and outside Australia the application should be made by reference to the person's practice in Australia.

Note C: Practice details

For the purposes of reporting you will be assigned to your principal place of practice on the Law Society records.

Change in practice details

Clause 61 of the Legal Profession Uniform Law Application Regulation 2015 requires a local legal practitioner to notify the Law Society of any changes to particulars relating to the practitioner within 7 days after the change occurs. If you need to change your details, please notify the Law Society in writing.

Note D: Address details

Section 442(1)(b) of the Legal Profession Uniform Law (NSW) requires the Law Society's Register to include an address for service for each local legal practitioner. The address for service must be a physical street address.

Section 149(8) of the Legal Profession Uniform Law Application Act 2014 requires the Law Society Council to make the Register publicly available for inspection. The address for service will appear on this version of the Register, unless special circumstances warrant it not being publicly available.

Section 149(7) of the Legal Profession Uniform Law Application Act 2014 provides that the Law Society Council may publish information recorded on the Register to members of the public in circumstances it considers appropriate.

Note E: Other places of practice

Legal practitioners engaging in legal practice with more than one law practice or entity are required to complete this question.

Note F: Foreign languages

Please note that if you are practising within a law practice, this information may appear on the Law Society's website unless you advise that you do not wish for it to be disclosed.

Note G: Practising certificate type

The practising certificate granted by the Law Society Council will reflect the conditions to which your entitlement to practise is subject. Certificate categories are:

- Principal of a law practice – The holder is authorised to engage in legal practice as a principal and also as an employee of a law practice, corporate legal practitioner or government legal practitioner and also as a volunteer at a community legal service, or otherwise on a pro bono basis.
- Employee of a law practice – The holder is authorised to engage in legal practice as an employee of a law practice, corporate legal practitioner or government legal practitioner and also as a volunteer at a community legal service, or otherwise on a pro bono basis.
- Corporate legal practitioner – The holder is authorised to engage in legal practice as a corporate legal practitioner or government legal practitioner and also as a volunteer at a community legal service, or otherwise on a pro bono basis.
- Government legal practitioner – The holder is authorised to engage in legal practice as a government legal practitioner or corporate legal practitioner and also as a volunteer at a community legal service, or otherwise on a pro bono basis.
- Volunteer – The holder is authorised to engage in legal practice as a volunteer at a community legal service and otherwise on a pro bono basis, only.

Notes:

- Discretionary conditions imposed by the Law Society Council may prohibit, restrict or regulate the provision of legal services by an Australian legal practitioner at community legal services or otherwise on a pro bono basis.
- Information on other conditions that may apply is available on the Law Society's website.

Note H: Fit and proper person

Applicants must address each of the matters referred to in rule 13(1) of the Legal Profession Uniform General Rules 2015 in considering whether or not they are a fit and proper person to hold an Australian practising certificate. These Rules are available on the Law Society's website at www.lawsociety.com.au.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Note I: Show cause events

Section 87 of the Legal Profession Uniform Law (NSW) requires that an applicant must provide to the Law Society Council a statement about any automatic show cause event and explain why, despite the show cause event, the applicant considers himself or herself to be a fit and proper person to hold a practising certificate.

An automatic show cause event is a bankruptcy-related event, a conviction for a serious offence or a tax offence. Please refer to sections 86 and 87, and the definitions in section 6, of the Legal Profession Uniform Law (NSW) to determine if you are required to provide a statement.

Please contact the Professional Standards Department on (02) 9926 0110 for assistance.

Note J: Current or previously held practising certificate(s)

Please note that if you currently hold an Australian practising certificate you will need to surrender that certificate before this certificate can be granted.

The Law Society Council may require you to furnish such further information as it considers relevant to its determination of the application within such time as it specifies.

Note K: Declaration

To maintain the integrity and standing of legal practitioners in NSW, Rule 12 of the Legal Profession Uniform General Rules 2015 (Rules) requires practitioners to declare if they are aware of any matter (including a finding, conduct or event) referred to in rule 13(1) of the Rules. Rule 13 includes (amongst others) matters relating to insolvency, convictions, disciplinary matters (wherever occurring), adverse findings (whether in the profession or otherwise), failure to comply with laws relating to the legal profession and various other matters. Practitioners should review Rule 13 in its entirety and provide a statement under Rule 12 that addresses each of the matters relevant to them and why they are a fit and proper person to hold a practising certificate notwithstanding the matter disclosed.

Practitioners do not have to disclose minor offences such as parking fines or minor traffic infringements (see Rule 15).

PERSONAL INFORMATION COLLECTION NOTICE

By completing this form you are providing personal information to The Law Society of New South Wales (we, us, or our).

By lodging this application, you confirm that you have read the Personal Information Collection Notice and that you consent to The Law Society of New South Wales' collection, use and disclosure of information in accordance with that Notice. If you have any questions regarding the Personal Information Collection Notice please contact our Privacy Officer using the contact details below, prior to lodging this application.

Who do we collect the personal information from?

We generally collect your personal information directly from you. However, in some cases, we may receive your personal information from a third party (for instance if we receive a complaint) and when it is relevant to our statutory responsibilities (for instance other regulators who have dealt with you).

What are the purposes for which we collect and hold personal information?

We collect and hold your personal information to:

- fulfil our functions under, facilitate compliance with, and carry out our responsibilities in connection with, the Legal Profession Act 2004 (NSW), the legal profession legislation (as defined in the Legal Profession Uniform Law Application Act 2014), the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth), the Professional Standards Act 1994 (NSW) and associated regulations (which require and authorise us to collect certain information) including to maintain regulatory and corporate records;
- fulfil our role as a professional association including:
 - maintaining membership records
 - communicating with you to offer products, services and events and when you obtain a product or service or come to an event
 - to conduct research and provide public representation; and
- provide information to third parties as authorised or required by law.

What if we didn't collect this personal information?

Without your personal information we may not be able to process your application or request, perform our statutory functions or provide you with some or all of the services of the Law Society as a professional association.

Who are the types of bodies and persons to whom we usually disclose your personal information?

Your personal information may be provided to:

- entities distributing information relevant to you as a legal practitioner or member of the Law Society;
- Lawcover and other professional indemnity insurers and practising certificate funders;
- our professional advisors and contractors (strictly on the basis that the information is to be used only for providing services to the Law Society and must not be disclosed);
- Australian regulators and government entities (such as the Office of the Legal Services Commissioner) and overseas regulators; and
- organisations that represent the legal profession such as the Law Council of Australia and Regional Law Societies.

Disclosure overseas

If you practise in a foreign country (or apply to do so) we may send your personal information overseas in response to an inquiry from the relevant authority in that place.

We use the services of certain third party service providers which may have offices or other operations outside of Australia. As a result, your personal information may be disclosed to overseas recipients. All service providers that have access to personal information held by us are required to keep the information confidential and not to make use of it for any purpose other than to provide services in accordance with their engagement.

You can access and correct your personal information

Our privacy policy contains information about how you may access your personal information and seek correction of such information; as well as how to complain about a breach of the Australian Privacy Principles and how we will deal with such a complaint. Our privacy policy is accessible via lawsociety.com.au/privacy-policy
