

The Honourable Justice Elisabeth Peden

Supreme Court of New South Wales

Her Honour was appointed as Judge of Supreme Court of NSW in 2022. Her Honour was admitted as a legal practitioner in 1994 and commenced practising as an academic barrister in 1999 and as a fulltime barrister in 2007; Her Honour was appointed senior counsel in 2019. Her Honour had a general commercial practice at the bar, regularly appearing in the Federal and Supreme Courts around Australia. Her Honour also appeared in the High Court and various tribunals. Her Honour's practice areas were litigation, arbitration and advice including appellate, commercial/contract, corporate and banking, construction, equity, and property, including strata, succession/family provision, medical/professional negligence. Her Honour has provided advice on drafting, planning and strategy and litigation to government bodies, including NSW government departments, the New Zealand government, large and small corporations, and individuals. For many years, her Honour was a Professor at the University of Sydney. Her Honour has an international reputation in contract, commercial law and evidence law.

THE LAW SOCIETY
OF NEW SOUTH WALES