

Dr Michael McNamara

Senior Lecturer, College of Business,
Government and Law, Flinders University

Day 1 – The Legal Profession

Building Trust - Lawyers' relationships with clients and colleagues online

11.00am – 12.00pm

About Dr Michael McNamara

Michael joined Flinders Law in February 2017. Michael has a diverse teaching experience in the areas of business law, labour law, legal ethics, and clinical legal education, with a current focus on teaching commercial law topics to business and accounting students.

Prior to joining Flinders Law, Michael gained broad experience in teaching at Bond University and Griffith University while still working as a solicitor in private practice. Michael's legal work experience covers a range of practice areas with an overall focus on business and property law. He has worked in a number of legal practice settings including: a top-tier national firm; a small commercial firm; and as a sole practitioner. Michael has also supervised law students in a live-client clinic based in a Community Legal Centre.